Anyone For Password?

The ACHS Future Business Leaders of America, met on Thursday, Feb. 3, in the high school auditorium.

The business of the chapter was conducted by the president, Diane Smith.

Vice-president, Nancy Ransom, then took charge of the meeting and conducted several games of password. In this game, two teams would compete against each other, trying to guess words by clues, which all pertained to business. Winners of this competition were Shirley Thomas and Teresa Franklin who were awarded with prizes.

The password game was an active way to increase our business skills and knowledge, as the chapter is preparing to attend the Longwood Regional Meeting during the first week end in March.

Along with the help of the 19-71-72 officers, sponsors, and our most active members, the Future Business Leaders of America, seeks to earn honors as in last year's regional meeting.

AMSTED Industries Buy Glamorgan

CHICAGO – Chicago-based AMSTED Industries announced Feb. 3 that it appeared the acquisition of the business of Glamorgan Pipe and Foundry Co. would be consummated prior to the end of February.

Joseph B. Lanterman, AMSTED's Chairman, made the announcement after the Justice Department's petition for a temporary injunction to prevent the acquisition was denied in the U. S. District Court in Chicago.

Lanterman said the cash purchase price cannot be exactly determined at this time but that it would be less than $8,000,000.

The proposed acquisition was announced in August, 1971, when an agreement in principle was reached by the two compnies.

Glamorgan's sales during 1971 were about $25,000,000. Its 185,000 square foot plant facilities cover a nine-acre site in Lynchburg, Virginia, producing ductile and cast iron pressure pipe, soil pipe, fittings for those product lines, and plastic pipe for water transmission. It employs nearly 600 people.

Feb. 20 Is Safety Sunday

RICHMOND, VA. – Sunday (February 20) will be recognized in Va. churches and across the nation as National Highway Safety Sunday, John T. Hanna, director of the Highway Safety Division of Virginia announced today.

R. W. Mitchell (Bobby), of Appomattox, is the county chairman of the Highway Safety Commission.

"Driving carries a personal moral responsibility and religious leaders are setting aside this day to help encourage a sense of concern for all of us who use our highways - pedestrians, motorists, passengers, and ourselves as well," Hanna said.

More than 4,500 clergymen throughout the state have been asked to participate in Safety Sunday, the seventh annual event sponsored by the Division in cooperation with the National Foundation for Highway Safety. Hanna said it is hoped that many churches will make Safety Sunday a part of their sermons and church bulletins.

"Sunday is one of the highest fatality days of the week, surpassed only by Friday," Hanna said. "Last year 248 persons lost their lives in Virginia in Sunday accidents alone. Already this year the Sunday toll on Virginia's highways is 13."

Hanna said the two largest single causes of highway fatalities are the excessive speeder and the "driving drunk." Half of the fatalities in Virginia are attributed to drinking drivers and at least a third are caused by drivers exceeding the speed limit.
